Read Wm. Matthews' new advertisement of watches, jewelry, silverware etc., suitable for holiday presents. He has a large and well assorted stock of the newest and most beautiful goods in his line, both useful and ornamental. Now is the time to call and make your selections.

Kibler & Hughey have a new ad in this week's News, to which we call the attention of those wanting stoves, cutlery, and hardware or any other goods in their line. They have many articles well suited for holiday presents, and are selling at prices to suit the times. Give them a call.

Dan Rice, the veteran shawman and clown, lectured at Music Hall on Thanksgiving night to an audience of about two hundred, his subject as announced on the bills was "The Idiosyncrasies of the Human Mind, or The Fool Wise at Least." But from what we learned from those present the so called "lecture" was better suited to the saw dust arena than to the lecture platform.

FROM SALT RIVER.

Letter from our Special Correspondent.

SALT RIVER, November 20, 1884.

EDITORS HIGHLAND NEWS—I have looked all through the G. O. P. hosts for your kind faces, but as yet have failed to see you, so I conclude you have not come, and thinking you would like a word from us, I write you a description of route, trip, landing, etc. The ticket furnished me is about one half of a yard long, coupons, etc., marked "G. O. P. Underground R. R." First express from Hillsboro to "Belva Dear," thence to Spooner (Bell Batter), thence to Johnstown, and thence to Logansport, which by the way is the only city of beauty and energy I saw after leaving "Belva Dear." From Logansport to Blinsville, through the consideration of the R. R. Co., was allowed to "lay over," and was thoroughly surprised at the enterprise of the people, who were well satisfied, and their feeling of protection was remarkable. Everybody happy, and if this city keeps on growing for the next four years as it has for the last six months its population will be at least 350,000 (popular majority). The Cincinnati Commercial Gazette had just arrived, and letters from the Mississippi telling of the jollification over the election of "Marie and the Kid," and the Old Flag of the Confederacy. Halloing for Jeff Davis, whipping negroes and raising the devil generally with the Republicans was the way they jollified. The boys did not receive the news with favor, but with the same feeling we had after the Ball Run fight. At this place I can say Blasphemy is growing.

In the morning of the 14th inst. I took a little unbroken, weather-beaten, worn-out, ill-gotten and thoroughly rotten little boat, which had been plying its trade for the last twenty-four years across this turbulent stream (Salt river). I did not like the appearance of things at all, but soothed my feelings until one of the roustabouts of the recently reconstituted Democratic party took me to one side and struck me for a drink. Of course I had nothing for him. Then began quizzing me about old friends, (it appears this r-a-w was once a Republican, and he would ask about those who were formerly of the party feeling), such as Hough, Long, Sloane, DelBrion and P. J. (Prominent Journalist) Dickey. I answered him as best I could, and he, learning that all had been rewardly save Mr. Sloane, and he "the noblest Roman of them all" receiving "only kicks for careeves," was much astonished to think the party of their adoption would make officers of such men with small callings and not honor the "towering oak." Said r-a-d dropped his head and actually wept over the degeneracy of the D— party, and concluded to pit his trials as r-a-t on Salt river.

At last we crossed the briny deep and landed at H. W. S., and such a scene as met my gaze. (The whole of the D— party had not yet returned.) The party of the D— party, is said to be, is to keep the old men back, as was demonstrated here; for the young men were all gone (to the front) and the old yeomen were here, clad in fifth, covered by names, empty (Run) bottles for pillows, and "crutin" all around them. The only commerce here was Lynchburg whisky and Kanman's and Gambrin's Beer, with free trade in both articles. The whole appearance of the country here denoted maladministration, without regard to the wants of the people or the condition of the country. No money in the treasury just as it was at the close of Buchanan's administration. Not even enough on their hands to fertilize the arid soil.

OPINION

Of Judge Higgins in the Conner Case upon the Motion in Arrest of Judgment.

The question made in this case arises upon the indictment, and is now for the first time brought to the notice of the court. It could have been raised upon the trial, but as yet have failed to see you, so I conclude you have not come, and thinking you would like a word from us, I write you a description of route, trip, landing, etc. The ticket furnished me is about one half of a yard long, coupons, etc., marked "G. The announcement of the death of Mr. Savage at places of business and in the court room was rather startling and produced a profound sensation of sorrow throughout the town.

The evening of the first of the present month Mr. Savage addressed a meeting in the Music Hall, Hillsboro. The night was a damp, disagreeable one, and on the way from the hall to the hotel Mr. Savage accidentally contracted a cold, as shortly after he became ill, and was seized with a chill, which was followed by a severe attack of the grippe. He had been hunting and shooting all day, and was exhausted.

The child of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Purdy was buried on last Monday. They have the sympathy of many friends.

Thanksgiving was a sad day to the people here, on account of an accident that happened to Mrs. Purdy. She had been hunting and shooting all day, and was exhausted.
